"So how do you tell stories that stick-- in your own mind and in the minds of your family, friends, colleagues, and clients? That's precisely what you'll learn in The Art of Storytelling: From Parents to Professionals, an enthralling course that reveals the tried-and-true methods experienced storytellers use to develop and tell engaging, entertaining, and memorable tales. In 24 lectures, Professor Hannah B. Harvey of East Tennessee State University demonstrates how to master the art form's basic principles with the same witty, dynamic energy that has made her an internationally recognized professional storyteller and award-winning educator. Even if you never plan to set foot on a stage, knowing what a professional storyteller does in the process of crafting and delivering a tale allows you to enhance the stories you tell everyday-- to your children at bedtime, in your conversational anecdotes, and in your presentations at work. Teachers, lawyers, clergy, coaches, parents, and anyone who wants to understand the power of stories to capture hearts and minds will benefit from the lessons presented in this course"--Publisher's web site.

The study aims to investigate the financial management competency of college principals from the Further Education and Training institutions in the North-West Province of South Africa. Among the main findings and recommendations of the study are that (1) college principals received minimal orientation, induction and training in financial management at assumption of duty, (2) college principals have acquainted themselves with financial management policies and procedures, (3) college management has a greater influence of financial management than all other stakeholders or structures, etcetera. It is recommended that finance offices should be sufficiently staffed with relevantly qualified personnel.
